You will lear me witness, that, as a general ing, I am patient with the necessary evils a high rate of the high the necessary evils which has dual pad down on our nuhappy country, and treat with a degree of liberality these haps who are so beinghted as to disagree with me in regard to the policy which should be pursued toward the misguided Confederacy. Early in the war I was complied to advance certain phinons in regard to humanity which I regret opinions in regard to humanity which I regret to say, some others didn't see. I then advocated one of two courses—to permit the disaffected States to go to the devil on their own hook, believing they would very soon seek a retrograde route, or, this course repudiated, to commence, wherever the Confederate flag was found, to burn and destroy as we went, making every foot of ground over which we passed uninhabitants to be and North or South, as their "affinities" night dictate, with all their household goods and household goods. M. Emile de Girardin, the well-known political writer, is seemingly ambitions of success in another walk of literature. He has been reading a play of his own composition to the Committee of the Theatre Francals. The title is seid to be "Le Supplice d'nne Femme," and the piece was received with great favor.

We learn from Paris that another cheap elition of "Renan's "Vie de Jesus" is in the press. A correspondent says "the profits of the publishers and author of this work must have been enermous. [Correspondence of the New York Times.] Paris, Friday, Feb. 24, 1865. The great question of the moment in Govern-ert citeles and at the Bourse is that of America, and, secondarily, that of Meyico. I will try and give you a correct outline of the situation, as it at present presents itself.

It appears to be certain that the speech of the Imperer from the throne-contained, as late as on the morning before delivery, a paragraph de-ciating the intention of the Government to con-tinue its policy of non-intervention in American affairs, and that the reception of the despatch from New York atmonaging the departure of Mesers, Lincoln and Seward to meet the Contederate Commissioners at Fortress Monroe which was received and read by the Empero an honr or so before the delivery of his speech. induced him to strike out from the speech all he had written on the subject of America.

had written on the subject of America.

Now the great question with everybody is, why did his Majesty suppress this paragraph? Was it because the prospect of union between the North and South threatened his Mexican schemes and rendered it necessary that he should not commit himself to the doctrine of non-inter cention? Or was it simply that he had not time or rewrite the paragraph in language to sunding? Many persons assume the first explanation, and with these persons there is a regular papic on the subject. When it was declared at the Bourse two or three days after the delivery of the imperial speech, by persons of consequence, that there had been a suppression made in the speech on account of the news from America, there was a great fall in the Mexican bonds and a convert fight among the politicians who conthere was a great fall in the Mexican bonds and a general fuith among the politicians who occupy themselves especially in Mexican affaira. So also the rebel arents took this view of the case, as it now appears for there is a conclave of these gentlemen now sitting here, composed of Mesers. S'idell, Mason, Mann. Buchanan, Rost, and perhaps others, who are working with great energy, and, as I hear on all siles, with great hope for a reeagnition of the Confederacy and an alliance with Maximilian. On the side I hear that they base their hope of a ree gminer on the threatening attitude of the Nistletoward France and on the other that lever are trying to obtain an indirect ree intition by the argument that, as there was no election field in any of the States is rebellion. GUERILLA OUTRAGES IN SOUTHERN KEN-TUCKY. FRANKLIN, KY., March 13, 1865.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

In my last I chronleled the viliainous and barbarous acts of a party of guerillas who visited a peaceable and quiet neighborhood, some six telies northwest from this place. As "misfortunes come not singly, but in buttalions," the same neighborhood was visited last week by another band equally full of viliany and steeped in crime. Their operations, however, were further detant from town, and their mede of treating those who were on infortunate as to fall into their hands was quite different, though more brutal than that practised by the ruffians spoken of in my letter of now forgotten date

ruffians spoken of in my letter of now forgotten date

A demand for money is made by all gnerillas; pistols inquired for, and watches invariably asked for. After making the preliminary investigations, the party of which I am now speaking sought to enforce their demands not by threats of shooting, but deliberately tied ropes around the necks of their victims and hoisted them in mid-air to make them disgorge their money or tell where it was. This was successful v practised pion a Mr. Hinghes, who was at one time a Federal soldier, from whom they wrested about thirty dollars, the hard-earned savings of a kind father for his wife and little ones. and Inhuman treatment of him, despite the entreaties of his wife.

They next visited a Mrs. Taylor and treated her son Benjamin in the same way, without, however, effecting any gain, for npon the representation of the mother and son, that the gold and silver, which they said they wereafter, were in Russellville, they desisted from any further aftempts to make the son tell. The same party visited Aulurn on the Memphis Branch Road and obtained from the citizens of that very unfortunate village several hundred dollars. They demanded of Mr Harry Woodward—a 'stanch Union man—seven thousand deliars, with a threat of taking his life, if the amount was not forthcoming. He did not comply, and they led him torth from his family to carry into execution their threat, but as the amount of three hundred in greenbacks and twenty-sevent dollars in gold was raised and given to them, they left without doing him any personal violence. Judge Pickering did not appear before the conrt, but his son addressed a plaintive appeal, in which he declared that his father, "from his youth upward, through a long, laborious, and useful life, and until he was visited by the most awful dispensation of Providence, the loss of reason, he was unexceptionable in his morals, remarkable for the purity of his habits, and the deviations now complained of are irresistible evidence of the deranged state of his mind." The Senate was not disposed (this was in 1804) to receive the excuse of insanity. Evidence was adduced to show that Judge Pickering was addicted to intoxication, and the Depnty-Marshal of his court testified that on one occasion he directed the court to be adjourned, saving, "I'm damned drunk, but I'll be sober by the morning." Judge Oleott, in the course of his evidence, testified: "Judge Pickering conversed on some subjects rationally, but on others was incoherent, wild, and extravagant. I believe that his insanity was the cause of his intemperance, although it was not improbable that after his insanity had produced a degree of intemperance, the intemperance and insanity might act unutually as cause and effect." The Senate were not convinced by this reasoning, and deviced do y a voie of twenty to elx. that Judge a friend or friends present whom he had not ten for a long time, these would stand and em-ace each other, and generally kiss each other to. It is now perfectly evident that the war will end, if it end at all, in the annihilation of the military strength of the South. If any attempt at military organizations in that section shall be subsequently made, they will be feeble. and their repression will be an easy work. But examples are memorable indeed, but an importhe terms of reconstruction will be a matter de- tant fact, too often forgotten, should be considmanding long, careful, and deep consideration. WM. KAYE, Mayor.

FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 3 A. M.

We hope that not only those subject to the draft, but all persons who feel any interest in the welfare of our city, will cheerfully respond to the request of Mr. Nauts and render him, as well as the collectors in the various wards, such assistance as will effectually relieve the city from the draft. With money, recruits can be had in sufficient numbers to meet the requirements of the draft, and we urge our citizens to come forward at once with their subscriptions and contributions; for, as surely as we do not fill our quota by enlistments, the draft will be enforced in this District, possibly within the present month.

Yesterday, a man by the name of Coyle was presented before the City Court, charged with violating one of the laws of Kentneky regulating recruiting in this State. Coyle is from Cincinnati, and has an office on the corner of Market and Fourth streets. Several of the police officers testified that they had suspected him of being engaged in this business for some time, but could not find sufficient proof. On Wednesday, he was observed on the mailboat, purchasing tickets for Cincinnati, and giving them to two men whom he had procured to go as substitutes. He was then arrested. This may be f n to the substitute-broker, who makes the money by the transactions, but it is death to our citizeus, who are working and striving hard to tree themselves from the draft. We ant join the act of the Legislature regulating recruit ng in this State, and to punish persons who violate the laws of Kentucky ln relation The first section says: "That recruitin for military or naval service within the limits of Kentu ky, except into the regular army or n val rive of the Government of the United Sate, or into organizations specially auth-tir by the state of Kentucky, is hereby problemed The second section of the act fixes the penalty "Any person violating this Let hall a -t ject to a five of nye hundred dollate it real result be of ains, to be collected as other time, and to my risonin at for not less then two me the nor more than sa months in kome county jal t each ald every offence. A day or two since Rev. Thomas Jones negro detective, with asquad of negro troops, went to the work-house and demanded the release of all the negro women who were incarce rated within the prison walls, producing his authorlty for this proceeding. The negro women were ordered there by the Judge of the City Court for misdemeanors, and even for felony. The keeper of the prison, Mr. Kirkpatrick, protested, and with the Judge and City Attorney, appealed to Gen. Palmer. The General was perfectly surprised at the negro's conduct, and stated that he authorized him only to inquire where colored men were imprisoned for refusing to go as substitutes, as he understood that such was the case. The General also assured the Judge that he would heartily co-operate with the civil anthorities in bringing gullty parties to justice, and that the conduct above alluded to was a gross mistake on the part of the negro.

SUE MUNDY'S CAP .- A quartel ensued near he gallows at the time Sue Mundy was executed for the possession of the cap he had worn. The cap was placed on a chair on the gallows, and a white covering placed over the prisoner's face. After he was cut down, a clamorous crowd gathered around the scaffold to secure a plece of the cord as a souvenir. At the same ime two or three disputed for the cap. The arties were arrested, and brought before the rovest Marshal for disorderly conduct and sent to the Barracks. But the most singular part to clate is that the brand of "Green & Green" is on the inside. The question is, did Sue Mandy ress the cap from some was worn traveller, or was it purchased by himself at the store of Green & Green's. It is at present at the Provost Marshal's office.

CAPTURE OF RUBEL OFFICERS -A telegram as received frem Clarksville on Tuesday at District Headquarters at Nashville, reporting the capture of a Lieutenant Colonel, Adjutan and three men, with their horses and equip t cits, on Studay last, year that place. The expedition consisted of a squad of mounted latarty under Sergeant Abby. The prisone telorged to C-lonel Malore's regiment, o you's command, and were seou ing for hostes when they were "gobbled." Some of L' on's men arc prisoners at Clarksville, and the rebel General has been trying for some time st to get 'even" with us, but he has a very old" way of accomplishing his design. MANY CITIZENS.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: Why is it there is so much industry displayed on the street cleaning at this time? There is no occasion for it now when the streets are comparatively free of dirt and mud. The winder with everybody what can be the occasion? I it to employ every street-cleaner in the city to influence his vote at the coming election? I can't believe this is so; and yet I am constantly told it is for that purpose. There is something in the wind, so, voters, look out for a squall in this or the next month. NOTICES OF THE DAY.
